Nihil novi in historia?
25th National Congress of History Students

We are happy to invite you to the 25th National Congress of History Students that will take place from 19th April to 23rd April 2017 in Poznań, Poland.

We would like to invite students interested in history and historical sciences (archeology, ethnology, history of art etc.) to present the results of their research at the Faculty of History of Adam Mickiewicz University. We wish that the jubilee Congress Nihil novi in historia? will be a place to exchange experiences between history students from all over the world. During five days of sessions we are planning several panels ranging from prehistory to modern times.

The Application form and with the Conference paper attached should be filled in on the conference website by 31st December 2016.

We accept conference papers also in English.

We plan to a post-conference publication.

The conference fee is €20 for participants from abroad.
